

Improving the Transition for Foster Youth with Disabilities:

A Regional Training to Promote Implementation of AB 1331

Assembly Bill 1331 went into effect January 1, 2008, requiring that every youth in foster care be screened for Supplemental Security Income (SSI). This training will help counties, providers and advocates improve implementation, discuss other issues related to the transition for foster youth with disabilities, and help stakeholders understand their role in facilitating a smooth transition.

Sponsored by the John Burton Foundation and the Alliance for Children's Rights.
Special Thanks to Kaiser Permanente, The California Wellness Foundation and The California Endowment.

Training Topics:

- What does SSI mean for foster youth with disabilities?
- How can I improve the screening process for SSI eligibility?
- How do I put together a strong application?
- How can I ensure a youth's transition goes smoothly after an application is approved?
- What can people outside the Child Welfare Department do to improve the transitions of foster youth with disabilities?

.... And more!

Who Should Attend?

County child welfare case workers, supervisors and directors, probation staff, minor's attorneys, ILP workers, community-based ILSP providers, Title IV-E and social work professors and students, court personnel, caregivers, CASA staff, and anyone who works with or on behalf of foster youth.

Date and Time:

Monday, June 28, 2010 • Registration: 10:00 to 10:30
Plenary Session and Workshops: 10:30 to 3:30 (Lunch and Refreshments Provided)

Location:

Oakland Conference Center, The California Endowment
1111 Broadway, 7th Floor • Oakland, CA 94607 (Map and Transportation info HERE)

How to Register:

Space is limited so register early to ensure your spot!
Click HERE, visit www.SSITransitions.org or email hannah@johnburtonfoundation.org for a mail in registration form. For more information, visit www.ssitransitions.org.

This training brought to you by a generous grant from Kaiser Permanente.

KAISER PERMANENTE

The SSI Transition Project is a collaboration between the John Burton Foundation and the Alliance for Children's Rights. The goals of the Project are to help California's disabled youth make a successful transition from foster care, improve local practices in transition planning for disabled foster youth and develop a state and federal policy agenda to promote SSI utilization among foster youth in transition.

Contact Hannah Haley with any questions about this training or the SSI Transitions Project
(415) 693-1326
hannah@johnburtonfoundation.org